Meantime Joseph H. Moss, representing the firm of Howe & Hummel, appeared with a retainer from the Detroit friends of Dr. Meyer, and when the man was arraigned before Judge Cowing, in Part I. of the Court of General Sessions, Mr. Moss was by his side.

In court Dr. Meyer wore an expression of perfect quiescence. His dead-blue eyes were focussed on the Judge, but they bore no expression. He uttered no word, but his face was haggard, and he looked much older than thirty years.

District-Attorney McIntyre appeared for the prosecution, and the court chamber was crowded to the doors by a throng of curiosity-seekers.

The proceedings did not consume two minutes.
